Will Ukraine's parliament adopt the 2027 state budget by 1 December 2026?

Ukraine's domestic politics · confidence: medium · resolves YES if the Verkhovna Rada votes for bill No. 16000 as a whole no later than 1 December, the deadline set by the Budget Code

TODAY · 14 NOV 2026 — SECOND READING AS PLANNED · 23–26 NOV — CHECK · 1 DEC 2026

63.29%

CONCLUSION

Parliament is likely to adopt the 2027 budget on time — 63.29%, but the margin is thin. The first reading took place on 28 October, eight days after the deadline, and gathered 239 votes against the 226 required. The second reading and the final vote are planned for 23–26 November, which leaves less than a week of reserve before the legal limit of 1 December. Last year, on a similar schedule, the budget was adopted on 3 December. This year's risks are higher: a record 5,236 amendments, part of revenue resting on tax changes that are not yet law, and $32.6 billion of external financing without a confirmed source. If the government returns the revised draft after 20 November, the chance falls to 43.40%.

REVISION SIGNALS

- ▲ the government submits the revised draft
- ▲ the committee backs a second reading
- ▲ parliament passes the tax laws
- ▼ second reading moved beyond 26 Nov
- ▼ factions refuse to vote
- ▼ the IMF demands changes to the draft

Scenario flows

Analytical position

The analysis proceeds from N1 — "adopted on schedule, by 26 November" (38.22%), but the lead is minimal: N3 — adoption after 1 December stands at 36.71%. Two things decide between them: whether the government returns the revised draft by 20 November, and whether a majority forms without fresh bargaining over taxes. N2 (25.07%) — a vote in the last days before the deadline — is the intermediate outcome: the schedule slips, but the law is observed. The event counts as having occurred in nodes N1 and N2 together.

COEFFICIENTS

Lvl	Variable	Coefficients	Why · research
1	When the government returns the revised draft: by 20 Nov · after	0.65 · 0.35	The status on parliament's website is "being prepared for second reading". The first reading was eight days late; the Budget Conclusions contain 90 proposals drawn from 5,236 amendments. The second-reading deadline under the Rules of Procedure — 20 November — is already missed: parliament's plan is 23–26 November.
2	Votes: in place · bargaining continues	G1: 0.55 · 0.45 G2: 0.40 · 0.60	239 votes at first reading means a margin of 13. Late budgets arise mostly from changing fiscal circumstances and divided government (Andersen et al. 2012); the first applies here: a deficit of 15% of GDP (VoxUkraine) and $32.6 billion without a source. Part of revenue — UAH 117.3 billion by one MP's count — depends on tax changes not yet adopted.
3	Final vote: by 26 Nov · 27 Nov–1 Dec · after 1 Dec	G1·V1: 0.75 · 0.17 · 0.08 G1·V2: 0.22 · 0.30 · 0.48 G2·V2: 0.05 · 0.22 · 0.73	Last year, with an "end of November" plan, the budget was adopted on 3 December with 257 votes. After 26 November only five days remain to the limit, so any postponement of the second reading almost certainly means a missed deadline.

Limitations: it is not known whether the government has already submitted the revised draft — the bill card does not show it. The adoption dates of the 2023–2025 budgets are cited without checking the law cards. Vote counts and amounts come from secondary accounts. Air-raid alerts and strikes can disrupt plenary sittings.

Next review: 20 November, on the Budget Committee's decision about the second reading.
